

All Things Ignatian

Finding God in the Health Sciences Library

Caring for the Person (Students)

The Health Sciences Library strives to provide health sciences information to our community and provide an environment conducive to teaching, learning, research, collaboration, and study.

The staff takes a dynamic and collaborative role in coaching, teaching, guiding, and providing new opportunities in professional health sciences education.

Creighton University Health Sciences Library

At the end of each quarter the HSL accepts canned food from patrons in exchange for fines that were accrued. The food that is collected is then donated to the St. Martin de Porres Food Bank.

The HSL employs a number of student workers, giving them work experience and helping them accomplish their goals at Creighton and in their future. Staff contributes to the annual Thanksgiving dinner for students.

Faith that Does Justice

The library staff provide support for faculty as they strive for social justice.

Staff members helped develop a National Library of Medicine Widget for information on the earthquake in Haiti.

The Multicultural Health Information Resources Center helps Creighton University health sciences students and faculty, community health care workers and the general public understand issues concerning minority health care and health disparities among people of different socioeconomic and cultural backgrounds.

Contemporary African American Academic Surgeons exhibit at the HSL

Wind River Reservation Tribal College Library

Staff at the HSL strive to be active participants in the community and donate their time to help those in physical, emotional, and spiritual need. Through donation to the Family to Family Project, Nebraska and Iowa Humane Societies.

Men & Women
for & with others

Volunteering at the Sienna Francis house
Serving on the Holy Name School Board
Deacon and member of the bereavement committee at St. Vincent de Paul parish.
Serving on the HELP Adult Board

River City Mixed Chorus
Red Cross Volunteer
GBT Academy of the Arts

Staff members have been involved in Project Interfaith and the Creighton Haiti Outreach Committee.

The HSL is a member of ICON, a local consortium of libraries that work together for the benefit of libraries and the public.

Opening Doors: Contemporary African American Surgeons, that highlighted a former Creighton Med Student and surgeon, Dr. Claude Organ

Magis

The members of the HSL staff strive to support their users by providing the latest and most complete academic resources to current and future health care providers. The staff also promotes health literacy within the community through health fairs and outreach activities.

Presbyterian health fair: A health fair that OISSE held that HSL had a booth at for the National Library of Medicine