Christian Spirituality Program

A Bridge to God's Greater Glory through Spiritual Direction Worldwide

Since 1974, The Christian Spirituality Program has offered an experience both academically challenging and spiritually inspiring.

The Masters of Arts degree and the Graduate Certificate in Spiritual Direction and Directed Retreats are a living synthesis of graduate level study, personal prayer, shared faith and a commitment to apostolic work that draws faculty and students from all over the world.

Rex Begley

In Melbourne Australia, I developed and delivered a program for training in prayer ministries within the diocese. This includes the training of Spiritual Directors. I could not have achieved any of these goals for the bishop and the diocese without the training and formation received at Creighton University.

Paulette Cerutti

I am presently providing spiritual direction and am a member of the retreat team in Georgetown, DC. I direct people in the 9 month long 19th Annotated Retreats; week long and six-week long retreats in daily life. I help facilitate monthly evenings of prayer with women who are in transition from homelessness and addiction.

Marco Svododa

I am currently employed at a parish in Chatsworth California, and am working in Children's Ministry. The pastor did indicate to me that my MA and Certificate were indeed factors in me being hired on.

Anthonia Nnaike

I'm using my studies from Creighton very well. I journey with young sisters in temporary vows. In addition, I am in charge of Vocation Promotion in our region in Zambia and I go to schools and Churches to teach them Principals and Foundation, helping them to discern their vocation.

Pat Murphy

I free lance as a spiritual director in northwestern Minnesota. Creighton's Christian Spiritual Program gave me a theological and pastoral foundation for this ministry and I never go to a Spiritual Direction appointment without my copy of "The Exercises".

Orrin Halepeska

I currently use my masters and certificate as a Priest in the Archdiocese of Galveston Houston. My education at Creighton has helped me be the go to person for spiritual things for many in my local church.

The program's more than 800 graduates attest that Creighton's Spirituality Program applies to a wide range of ministries. A major focus is preparing people to do spiritual direction and to give individually directed retreats in the contemplative, evocative Ignatian tradition.
